

Module 3 - main takeaways

- Gender mainstreaming is a journey towards gender equity
- There is not a single path to success; each organization should find its own way, using the tools that are available and the best practices in the field
- Monitoring and measuring progress is essential throughout this process
- To fight gender bias, you need to generate awareness, review your processes and embed the change structurally, through policies and regulations
- Do not postpone the resolutions of gender issues that seem more complicated to address, they are often the most important ones